meint Pressure in France. The Paris correspondent of the New York Priling thus writes, under date of Navember 9 magnarate agrace

Five years and more of continuous and unusual prosperity have placed the manufacturers and merchants of France in position to bear the pressure thus As yet, we hear of but few failures; but the efforts which many of them are now making to sustain them selves are, if continued, suicidal in their very nature. Silks are exposed to-day in the shop-windows, marked at prices ten and fifteen per cent. below their wholesale cost at the manufacturers six weeks ago. Some houses are offering their goods at still greater reduction .-Nor can they raise money on better terms. As good paper as can be made was discounted on Saturday at ten cent. - paper that used to be discounted at case will be readily understood when the rate of discount at the Bank of France is seven and a half; but the gravity of the case will only be understood by observing that a Parisian merchant, who hires money at ten per cent, commits as suicidal an act as the New Not York merchant who hires money at twenty per cent.-hangs himself to avoid suspension.

Height of Mountains.

It is perhaps a fact unknown to many of our readers, that within the limits of Colifornia is one of the loftiest peaks lish breadstuffs market, and prices had to be found on this continent. In the a declining tendency. Rocky Mountain chain, Long's Peak is 11,000 feet high, and James' Peak 11,-500. Mount Hood, in Oregon, is 13,-400 feet, while Shasta Butte, in Siskiyou, in 14,400 feet in height-being the loftiest summit in the United States .-In Mexico there are, however, a number of peaks higher than this. Popocatepetl is 17,710, Orizaba, 17,371, and Iztaccibuntl, 15,700 feet above the level of the sea. In South America there are eleven peaks 20,000 feet high, all of which are in the Andes range. One o' them, Mount Sor. to, is 25,:50 feet in height. In the Atlantic States there is mountain in the Blue Range, North Carolina, 6800 feet high. Mount Wash-ington, in New Hampshire, comes next, 8234 feet high. The Blue Mountains. in the West Indies, are 7271 feet high. The highest peak in Europe is Mont Blanc, 15,680 feet; the highest in Asia, Dhawalageu, 25,669 feet, and the highest in Africa, the mountains of Geesh. Hamar, in China, is 15,060 feet high .-A'ta Californian.
